THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE FOR 1868.

PRICE REDUCED. From every quarter, friends write us that systematic, determined efforts are making, and with considerable success, to push into circulation journals which sympathized with the Rebellion during its progress, and are now moved and inspired by its fundamental principle that Liberty is rightfully the birthright, not of all men, but of White men, that Blacks have no rights which Whites are bound to respect. A desperate effort is preparing to give ascendancy to this Reactionary principle in our Government through the triumph of its champions in the choice of our next President and Congress.

The journals thus crowded into circulation by offering them at cost are neither so large nor so varied in their contents, nor produced at anything like the cost of THE TRIBUNE. They are political merely or mainly, while our columns are more generally filled with Foreign Correspondence, Farming Intelligence, Literature, &c., &c.

Nevertheless, in deference to the representations of our friends, and in view of the momentous issues of our Presidential struggle

No newspaper so large and complete as THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE was ever before offered at so low a price. Even when our Currency was at par with gold, no such paper but THE TRIBUNE was offered at that price; and THE TRIBUNE then cost us far less than it now does. But the next election must be carried for Liberty and Loyalty, and we mean to do our part toward effecting that consummation.

We believe that the circulation of half a million copies of THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE during the coming year would be more effectual in influencing and confirming voters than five times their cost spent in the ordinary way just before election. Almost every Republican knows honest Democrats, who need only to be undereived in order to vote right in the coming contest. See to it that such are supplied with THE WEERLY TRIBUNE. It costs but little, and the result will be permanent.

Friends who propose to cooperate with us please send us your orders as promptly as may be. Address The Tribune, No. 154 Nassau-at., New-York.

THE HEBREW CHARITY BALL. The Academy of Music last evening resembled Alladin's Palace on a fête day. The gorgeous chanbled Ailadm's Palace on a fete day. The gorgeous chandelier threw a flood of effulgence upon a brilliant array of fashion and beauty. The glossy curls, sparkling black seves, and rich, tropical complexions, characterizing the Hebrew type of female beauty, were in the ascendant, and shose features, together with a profusion of jewels, partly hidden in rich silks and laces, lent a peculiar charm and brilliancy to the entertainment. As a dress ball, it was undoubtedly one of the finest of the season. In point of numbers, however, it was far behind the balls of the Fire Department and the Americus Club. Many of the distinguished gentlemen composing the Committee were absent and the inference is drawn that the once famous Hebrew charity balls are losing their popular features. Popular taste-scenes to demand masquerade and fancy-dress balls. These entertainments have been very well patronized during the present season, while, on the contrary, first-chass sorrees, like the Italian and Jewish balls, have met, pecuniarily, with but poor success. The entertainment last evening made up in brilliancy for what it lacked in point of numbers. Among those present were Mayor Hofiman and Judge Bosworth. The music, furnished by Graffala's Seventh Regiment Band, was excellent, and and evidently had an exhibitating effect upon the danced well. Walizes, mazourkas, schottishes, varsoviennes, gallops, and quadrilles were reeled until a late hour in the morning.

OPENING OF THE PEMBERTON AND HIGHTS-TOWN RAILROAD.

The formal opening of the Pemberton and The formal opening of the Pemberton and Hightstown Railroad of New-Jersey took place yesterday. Both Houses of the Legislature, officers of other railroad companies, and a number of ladies participated in the ceremonics. This road, with its connections will constitute a new through route between Philadelphia and New-York. Commencing at Camden, it passes through Moorestown, Hainesport, Mt. Holly, Pemberton New-Egrpt, and other thriving towns and villages, to Hightstown, where it connects with the Camden and Ambey road. The section of country through which this new road passes is among the most fortile in New-Jersey, and has long needed rail-road facilities by which its products could be forwarded to the great markets, without the necessity of the transportation of miles over common country toads. A road to accommedate this section has been asked for for many years: indeed, it was the original understanding that the Camden and Amboy road should be Juilt on nearly the same route with the Pemberton and Hightstown, with a branch to Bordentown, but the advantages presented by the route adopted were too great to permit the selection of anyother in that day of the infancy of rairoad enterprise, and for many years the most fertile sections of Burlington, Ocean and Monmouth Counties were almost as destinute of the means of transporting their products to market as they were before any railroads were hull. The conversion of this country roads into good turnplikes mitigated the evil, and the construction of branches of the Camden and Amboy to Mount Holly and Pemberton, and to Freehold served to accommodate, in some measure, these districts, but very imperfectly. Hightatown Railroad of New-Jersey took place yester-

Sit: Of the case of lynch-law and execution which occurred in Frankfort on the night of the 29th ult.

I propose to relate the circumstances as they came to the understanding of one present, but having nothing to do with the matter. I have no interest or sympathy with any person convicted, except such as is prompted by humanity, isw, and the good name of the commonwealth. I hope the statements here made will not be censured as being a parte, since the proceedings in this case have been pushed violently beyond the law, and out of reach of legal investigation, at least so far as the victum is concerned; and, not only so, other statements have been published which are obnoxious to such an objection.

The scene of the alleged attempted rape and murder is on a bare, steep hillside, above the railroad tunnel, along which passes a narrow foot-path toward the Cemetery. Below, and parallel to this path, is the railroad, on the track of which a man was at work not far off, still below, at the bank, within a stone's throw, are several coal boats which men were unloading; on the opposite side of the river, in speaking distance, are houses occupied. At the spot, and for some distance either way, there is not anoisetuction to the view. The occurrence was a short time ofter 4 o'clock in the evening. The man on the rail track had noticed the girl passing; he looked again and missed her, nor had there been time for her to pass out of his view. He was surprised, and, looking about, discovered her on the track near the tunnel, where she had massed her, nor had there been time for her to pass out of his view. He was surprised, and, looking about, discov-ered her on the track near the tunnel, where she had failen. One can hardly imagine a flend so reckless as to attempt, in daylight, criminal conduct, even without op-position, in such a place, exposed to the view and hearing of so many parties; and that a horrid struggle could their sind there have transpired without notice is strange in-deed.

Sitt unless it were by the sternest demands of justice, feelings would not allow us to disparage the poor gurl's necessary. In her pitiable condition, it seems almost sacrifications to question. But these reflections arise as reasons why rigid and careful investigations, such as haw and imparitial justice alone can secure, should be had in all cases, especially in view of irreconcilable circumstances.

When consciousness returned to the unfortunate girl, about 56 hours after she was taken up, she told of her violent usage, and named a boy who had perpetrated the crame. This boy had been formerly known to her, and when brought before her she said he was the criminal. Size reisions all states rational, the content of the conte

Statements have been published about the futile efforts at intervention by the Governor, Assistant Adjutant-General, and the Mayor, which I will not contradict; but I will say, for myself and others who were anxious for the supremacy of the law, that we did not see it.

The Mayor was present early in the action, but his efforts were so gentle that they aided little in the preserving of the peace. Yet he was not without excuse and reason; for, pending the events, there approached a friend—he said he was a friend, and a friend of the Democratic party—and advised him to have nothing to do with the affair. But few dark scenes are without some bright spot. Col. D. Howard Smith, Auditor, went in resolutely endeavoring to stay the mad career of the mob. He was alone, and after vain efforts was repelled with threats. He then said, and repeated his appeal to authority, that if he could get 25 armed men he would firite the mob from the jail. He denounced the proceedings as unjust and murderous; and said it could be proven by creditable men ne jail. The Mayor was on the street; the Governor in his paluee, entertaining a party; the Assistant Adjutant-General, who has lately had reputation for killing and catching outlaws, was in town; and the Arsenal, with all the arms and ammunition of the State (except those in the nands of the "Kentucky Legion") was in five minutes? Once of this cold-blooded scene of action. The negro was large, and repeatedly shot; but, without hope of mercy from man, died protesting his innocence. Chambers acting as Secretary. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The report of the Committee on New Members show that the increase of members for the year 1866 was 230, and during 1867 was 407, giving an increase of 187, making the total 647. The amount received for dues, fees, memberships, &c., is $4,903; for relats on real estate, $14,000; one proceeds of the exhibition, $15,000; appropriation by the State for the encouragement of County Fairs, $1,187,500; making a total of $5,100 59. from which is to be deducted the annual tax on the Broadway property, and the cost of improvements that have been lately made on it. After the full payment of the incumbrance since the purchase in 1849, amounting to $18,207 67, and the current expenses of the Institute, there remained, on the 31st of January, 1862, a balance in the treasury of $5,400 08. The Board say that the remarkable success attending the last exhibition deserves especial notice. The Board of Managers embraces members who have had great experience in the business of conducting fairs. They seemed to have been entirely harmonious in their deliberations, and their combined wisdom in giving efficiency to the new by-laws of the Institute, relating to Exhibitions, has resulted in a return of profits more than twice as large as that from the most successful of all previous Fairs, namely, thatjof 1819. To fully appreciate the importance of this result, it is not necessary to state that by the Exhibitions from the years 1833, 1839, 1860 and 1863, the Institute lost $13,122 94, and that the lotal surpluses of all those Exhibition of 1867 is shown to be $16,241 52, and of wee add the State appropriation which lately has been included in making up the final balance sheet of profits, the actual surplus derived from the Exhibition of 1867 is shown to be $16,187 50. An amount nearly $4,000 greater than that derived from all the Fairs for the past 19 years. The Boar

OBITUARY.

The Hon. Anson Herrick, editor and proprietor of The New York Atlas, died at his residence in this city yesterday, after a short illness, at the age of 56. He was a native of Lewiston, Maine, and a printer by trade. He came to this city in 1836, and after working two years as a journeyman printer started, in company with Jesse Fell. The New Fork Atlas. Mr. John F. Ropes, now a compositor on The Tribune, soon took the place of Fell in the proprietorship of The Atlas, and the success of the enterprise was forthwith assured. The Atlas has of late years sunk almost from public view. Mr. Herrick was in early life an ardent anti-Mason, and his debut in this city was owing to a difficulty arising from the strenuous advocacy of his views on Masonry in a journal that he published in Wiscasset, Maine, which difficulty compelled him to take his departure from that place "between two days." Early in his New-York career Mr. Herrick became an active Democratic "leader," and was elected Atlerman in 1853. Mr. Buchanan appointed Mr. Herrick Naval Storekeeper, after he had striven in vain for the Surveyorship of the Port. In 1862 he was elected to Congress, defeating the Hon. Abram Wakeman, the present Surveyor. The funeral will take place on Sunday, at 1 o'clock p. m., from Mr. Herrick's late residence in Lexington and the surveyor.

An explosion occurred, on Tuesday evening, in Messrs, Simonin & Co.'s oil works, at York and Belgrade-sis, Philadelpha. Hose was laid in the snow across the lots, and in a short time a number of streams were playing upon the works. Two stalls, containing about 6,000 galions of oil, were running, and one of them, from some cause, exploded. A hight distiller was in charge of the place, and went to the office adjoining on an errand. As he started to return he heard a noise, as he says, "like cannonading," and in an instant something shot up in the air, and he saw a ball of fire. Instantaneously fire burst from the still. It was confined to the still and receiving room, none of the vats or other places being at all injured. It probably was occasioned by the vapor in the still, or leakage in a pipe.
